CHUCK LARSEN

Partner

White & Case LLP

CHUCK LARSEN is an intellectual property partner based in White & Case LLP's Boston office and is dual-qualified as an English solicitor. He concentrates his practice on providing strategic counseling for clients in the United States and Europe. His practice includes a wide range of strategic areas, including transatlantic patent portfolio development in pre-litigation strategies. He conducts IP due diligence in the United States and Europe, with an emphasis on transatlantic patent validity, infringement and freedom-to-operate studies. He also actively supports clients in U.S. and European patent disputes, including Patent Trial and Appeal Board (PTAB) proceedings, EPO oppositions, and litigation.

He has advised on a wide range of technology in engineering and life sciences, with an extensive focus on medical technology, such as intravascular devices, respiratory systems, orthopedics, neuromonitoring, spine technology, electrical stimulation, health care informatics, biological manufacturing and diagnostics. A certifiable medtech junkie, he is moonlighting as a master's degree student at the Johns Hopkins Whiting School of Engineering.
