KEVIN POWERS is the founder and director of the M.S. in Cybersecurity Policy and Governance Program at Boston College, and an assistant professor of the practice at Boston College Law School and in Boston College's Carroll School of Management's Business Law and Society Department. Along with his teaching at Boston College, Kevin is a research affiliate at the MIT Sloan School of Management and has taught courses at the U.S. Naval Academy, where he was also the deputy general counsel to the superintendent. With more than 20 years of combined cybersecurity, data privacy, business, law enforcement, military, national security, higher education and teaching experience, he has worked as an analyst and an attorney for the U.S. Department of Justice, U.S. Navy, U.S. Department of Defense, and law firms in Boston and Washington, D.C., and as the general counsel for an international software company based in Seattle. Kevin also serves as a director for the board of Reading Cooperative Bank, a trustee for the board of Boston College High School, an advisory board member for HYCU, an advisory board member for CyberSaint Security and a member of the Boston College Law School Business Advisory Council. From 2016–2017, he was the panel lead for the collegiate working group for the U.S. Department of Homeland Security's National Initiative for Cybersecurity Education (NICE). Kevin regularly provides expert commentary regarding cybersecurity and national security concerns for varying local, national and international media outlets.
