DAVID CHEN

Counsel

Ropes & Gray LLP

---

DAVID CHEN is an IP transactions and data privacy counsel based in Ropes & Gray's Shanghai office. He regularly advises clients in the life sciences and technology industries on strategic collaborations, intellectual property transactions, general commercial matters and data monetization, protection and privacy matters. He also frequently advises private equity funds and other financial institutions on investment and financing transactions, mergers and acquisitions, and foreign direct investments in the APAC region. He often counsels clients on protecting and leveraging their data, patents, trade secrets, copyrights, trademarks and other intellectual property rights in China.

David specializes in advising pharmaceutical, biotech, digital health and medical device companies on their transactions encompassing the entire value chain, including on early-stage collaboration on drug discovery, in-licensing and out-licensing of drug candidates, CMO and CRO arrangements, supply, distribution, promotion, and cross-industry digital health initiatives.

David also regularly advises mobile app, mobile gaming, digital media and data-driven companies on their transactions involving mobile app, mobile game and content development, distribution and data sharing.
