Parth is the Founder & CEO of Lextegrity, a startup focused on innovative software for enterprises to mitigate fraud and corruption risks.

Prior to Lextegrity, Parth served as the lead counsel for Pfizer's global anti-corruption program office for five years. In that role, he oversaw a multi-year transformation of its anti-corruption program, including re-drafting policies and procedures, implementing new third-party due diligence systems and controls, enhancing integrated internal and financial systems and controls, and providing guidance around cross-functional risk assessment and data analytics initiatives. Most recently, he served as Chief Compliance Counsel for Pfizer's global Oncology business.

Prior to Pfizer, Parth was hired to oversee the enhancement of Avon's global anti-corruption compliance program after its voluntary disclosure of FCPA matters to U.S. authorities. Parth began his career at the law firm of Shearman & Sterling, where he was the lead associate editor of its FCPA Digest. He assisted two FCPA monitors, assisted in drafting several DOJ FCPA Opinion Release requests, and represented multiple multinational companies on FCPA investigations and compliance remediation matters.

Parth holds degrees from Harvard Law School and the Kennedy School of Government.
