

KEITH CLAYTON II

Principal Corporate Counsel –
Privacy, Safety, And Regulatory Affairs
Microsoft

KEITH CLAYTON II is a Principal Corporate Counsel in the Privacy, Safety, and Regulatory Affairs organization at Microsoft. As part of this organization, Keith helps Microsoft solve challenging global privacy and data protection issues impacting Microsoft's global organizations and products. Prior to this position, Keith worked in multiple legal and privacy organizations focusing on the laws of privacy, data protection, consumer protection, telecommunications, information technology, and intellectual property; including Boeing, Jeppesen, Colorado's Office of Consumer Protection, Liberty Mutual, and General Electric. In addition to his experience as an attorney and privacy professional, Keith taught Information Policy at Syracuse University's School of Information Studies. Keith is a member of bar of the State of Colorado and a graduate of Wabash College (BA), Boston College Law School (JD), and the University of Colorado Law School (LL.M. – Information Technology and Intellectual Property Law). Keith is a member of the International Association of Privacy Professionals' Research Advisory Board and is certified as a Certified Information Privacy Manager, Certified Information Privacy Professional – US, and Fellow of Information Privacy.